

Transferable skills: How your skills/experience apply to other jobs.

Transferable skills are skills that you obtained through experiences in your life such as past jobs, hobbies, interests, etc. These skills can be useful in other areas in your life such as towards an entirely new career.

While there may not be any job openings in the career that provided you with the skills and experience you have, those skill can still be applied to other jobs. The following lists popular jobs pursued by newcomers, and jobs that are similar to these.

Skills you bring:	Jobs those skills can be applied to:
Specialist Physicians	Biological technologists and technicians General practitioners and family physicians Medical laboratory technologists and pathologists' assistants Medical laboratory technicians
Financial Auditors and Accountants	Administrative officers Purchasing agents and officers Bookkeepers
Registered Nurses	Registered nursing assistants Ambulance attendants and other paramedical occupations Community and social service workers
General Practitioners and Family Physicians	Biological technologists and technicians Medical laboratory technologists and pathologists' assistants Medical laboratory technicians
Electrical and Electronics Engineers	Computer engineers Electrical and electronics engineering technologists and technicians Electronic service technicians (household and business equipment) Drafting technologists and technicians
Secondary School Teachers	Elementary school and kindergarten teachers Instructors and teachers of disabled persons
Civil Engineers	Land surveyors Civil engineering technologists and technicians and construction estimators Architectural technologists and technicians Drafting technologists and technicians Survey technologists and technicians
Mechanical Engineers	Industrial and manufacturing engineers Aerospace engineers Mechanical engineering technologists and technicians Industrial engineering and manufacturing technologists and technicians Drafting technologists and technicians
Computer Programmers	Computer systems analysts
Administrative Officers	Executive assistants Secretaries (except legal and medical secretarial)
Biologists and Related Scientists	Biological technologists and technicians Medical laboratory technologists and pathologists assistants Medical laboratory technicians
Computer systems analysts	Professional occupations in business services to management Computer engineers Computer programmers Database analysts and data administrators